Home Care Nursing Practice: Concepts and Applications 3rd edition, Robyn Rice MSN PhD (c) RN-C
By Carrie A. Delaney

Excellent presentation of professional Home Care Nursing Practice. Written in an easy to understand format guiding the home health nurse to rely on honed assessment skills, personal organization, and previous experiences to provide care in the uncontrolled home care environment within a workable framework. The book is written with understandable language, illustrations, and tables. Each chapter ends with a comprehensive list of scholarly references. This book provides authoritative research based evidence to establish a best practices model. Part One: Concepts of Home Care Nursing in easy to read chapters about history and philosophy, applying theory to clinical practice, home care nurse role and orientation, caring for families, developing the care plan, documentation, infection control standards, patient education, legal and ethical issues, case management and leadership, quality care. Part Two: Clinical Application primarily in specific disease: COPD, CHF, ventilator dependance, chronic wounds, diabetes, bladder dysfunction, rabh services, infusion therapy, neurological dysfunction, AIDS. Part THree: Clinical and Community Issues: maternal-child nursing, post-partum care, mental health, elderly patient care, hospice/palliatricve care, environmental threats in the home. Part Four: Furture Trends: telehealth and telecare, complementary therapies. Appendices include common labratory values. This book absolutely is a must for professional home health care nursing as it helps to establish a consistent standard in care. The professional home health nurse will find this book never collects dust on the shelf somewhere because it will be in constant use.
