This is a book to keep and read and reread again and again.

By Nancy R. Robinson

This is a compelling book. I knew of the book before I bought it. Before I began the text I read all the forward information and found that quite helpful to meet the book where it is. I find this a book that I read slowly and contemplate it paragraph by paragraph. I will probably keep this book on my nightstand for years to come.

Truly Exceptional

By Matthew W.

This book is genuinely beautiful and moving. I have two copies.

If you found the Swami Lakshman Joo or Jaideva Singh translations too academic to the detriment of the message and passion, you will be delighted with this book.

Delicious Food for the Soul

By Laura De Giorgio

NOTHING EXISTS THAT IS NOT SHIVA includes jewels of wisdom from Shiva Sutra, Gurugita, Vijnanabhairava and few other texts with Muktananda's enlightening commentaries.

Muktananda keeps on reminding the reader that Shiva is everywhere present and that a spiritual aspirant has to keep this always in his awareness. Here is an example related to working successfully with mantras:

"The one who repeats the mantra is Shiva, the mantra Namah Shivay is Shiva, and the Lord of the mantra - its goal - is Shiva. The secret of the realization of a mantra lies in repeating it, having identified oneself completely with Shiva. In the Svachanda Tantra, Lord Shiva says:

'O Goddess, only he who knows that Shiva is within himself as himself realizes the goal of the mantra.'"

The book is to be read, re-read, savored, absorbed and, of course, applied. As I read it once I found joy bubbling within me. I'll be reading it many more times.
