I was arrested aboard a Lockheed PV2 in Marianna, Florida. Then charged and convicted for 'conspiracy to import and distribute 12,000 pounds of marijuana.'

I stayed 5 years in Federal Prison for that 'indiscretion.'

My fellow inmates were murderers, rapists, kidnappers, armed bank robbers, and large scale drug offenders.

After 3 years 'behind the wall,' I became somewhat of a 'counselor.' A guy others came to for advice, help with writing a letter, or as a mediator of 'trouble among prisoners.'

Those guys were like a bunch of little kids. Show interest in them, talk with them about their problems, share what kept me sane in that environment, and they became the best friends a person could ask for.

Compassion is a lot more than just a word.

One lad had taken a female hostage during a bank robbery. To complete his escape, he killed the lady. He was 18 years old when he had done this. When I spoke with him, he was then 37. He had been in that prison for over 18 years. He was filled with remorse.

I befriended the only mass murderer in the prison where I was held. He had been convicted of killing 27 people. He was a heroin dealer. A 'bad batch' killed his customers. His regret was that he had not been a user. If he had been, his victims would still be alive. Again, this man showed huge sorrow for his past.

Other guys I met convicted of murders--the victims meant nothing to them. Those guys were an entirely different breed. I came to think of them as being born with a 'gene of danger.' What else could it be? There was no way this was 'learned behavior.'

I met those folks during my stay in Federal Prison. I was not a desperado. I'm as harmless as a Beagle puppy. But, never doubt that there are some very bad folks moving among us.

They will kill your ass in a heartbeat.

Another fine read!

Mr. Yonn does a fine job again! Thank goodness for straight shooters like him to help his fellow "vacationers" by treating others like you would want them to treat you. The concept works class! Best of all, he writes it like you are sitting there listening to him. I think he succeeded in making the best of a bad situation.

Good read.

By Sun Pak

Another well written and entertaining book by Hugh. The people he writes about think different than the average person. And they live in our world until they screw up in a way that lands them in prison. That should make you think twice before giving the finger to the next guy that cuts you off in traffic.

Highly recommended reading!
